HELPING STUDENTS WHO COME TO SCHOOL HUNGRY EVERY DAY

More than 3000 students in the Langley School District are coming to school hungry every single day. They arrive without having had breakfast and their lunch buckets, if they have them, are empty. Their days are bleak and filled with angst. When their fellow students high-five weekends and holidays, those 3000 kids slink away. But, thanks to dozens of businesses, corporations, associations and individuals in Langley, hungry students are provided with the nutritious food they need to thrive and learn so that they can receive the maximum benefit of the education to which they are entitled.
